

Stunning interest in 3D printing at Film & Comic Con 2014

April 2014: PRECISE Group showed 3D printing expertise at the Film & Comic Con in Dubai.

From April 3rd- April 5th during the Film & Comic Con PRECISE Group 3D printing solutions draw huge interest. The crowd of comic, movie and gaming fans just loved the opportunities 3D printing offers meanwhile.

While smaller single color plastic printers appealed to visitors for home use, the latest 3D lifelike model of persons created a tremendous interest among the visitors. PRECISE Group launched TIM[®] (This Is Me) in 2012, the start of a remarkable concept in 3D printing services. This technology allows 360 degree scanning of persons from head to toe in full color and produces graphic data in 2 seconds. These data get converted into a 3D print file to produce a small 3D lifelike figurine.

Since 2011 more personalized 3D products were added to the services such as the TIM[®]Fx. With TIM[®]Fx PRECISE Group is able to combine persons scanned heads with a theme body, such as Superman, Predator or Terminator. At the Film & Comic Con PRECISE Group offered consumers to scan them at the booth and then choose their favorite hero body instead of their own body to produce their customized 3D figurine.
